Consultation on the BIMSTEC Summit: People's Agenda and Concerns for the Summit

16th March, 2022

Before the conclusion of the BIMSTEC Summit on March 30, 2022 in Sri Lanka, a pre consultation session was organized at Hotel Kutumba, Lalitpur, Nepal. At the BIMSTEC meeting in 2021, the heads of states of all member countries had pledged to cooperate with each other in the fight against the pandemic and to overcome its consequences. In this context, five countries of South Asia would be represented in the upcoming summit. Realizing that a regional level pre-discussion/consultation is important in order to demonstrate concerns of the public and submit recommendations from the civil societies, Human Rights Alliance organized a national level consultation as a precursor to the regional level consultation with the objective to identify the key concerns for the people of Nepal that need to be taken to the attention of the concerned authorities.

The discussion was successful in identifying some of the key agendas that need to be raised in the upcoming summit.

The key point agenda from civil society perspective that was agreed upon by the experts was that: it is essential to create space for civil society in BIMSTEC process. There is a lack of civil society voices in this process and the BIMSTEC process needs to be pro people in the future.

The first half of the discussion centred on identifying the major areas of concern. The following were identified other important agendas that need to be raised:

1. Civic space and people's freedom
2. Right to health: peoples vaccine, accessibility of COVID vaccine and pandemic response
3. State accountability and democratization
4. Climate change, climate adaptation, global justice, forced migration, disaster induced displacement
5. Trade, investment and connectivity (framework/free trade agreement has developed/drafted but not passed yet)
  - o Transparent trade and trade facilities (goods and services)
  - o Minimizing trade cost/free market
  - o Benefit to producers, farmers and people. People participation: how poor, women, marginalized communities and informal sectors can be benefited?
  - o Investment cooperation and environment
  - o Better trade and supply chain (minimizing trade cost)
  - o Market access and tariff
  - o Inequality, economy recovery after COVID, support to SMEs (Small and Middle Enterprises)
6. Migration governance (Nepal-India migration and labor migration in other countries), refugee protection and zero cost of recruitment for foreign migrant worker
7. Natural resources and energy

7. Natural resources and energy
8. Development cooperation, working freedom for development agencies and civil society organizations
9. Tourism
10. Gender, trade, green growth and unpaid care economy
11. People to people connection
12. Debt and poverty alleviation
13. Militarization

The second half of the discussion focused on how could Nepal benefit from the platform, and what asks or suggestions should be submitted in order to make BIMSTEC a more dynamic platform. The following were identified as the main areas of importance for Nepal:

- Nepal can use BIMSTEC to connect with other member states and Asian countries.
- Nepal can use this platform to promote Buddhism, Buddhism circuit and Buddhism tourism
- Nepal can explore the prospect to sell Nepal's electricity to other South Asian countries in addition to India
- Nepal can take the lead on including the Poverty Alleviation theme
- How can Nepal and other member countries remain in open society/open visa regime?
- How Nepal can be engaged in bi-lateral engagement with India and other member countries for the better cooperation?

The discussion ended with an agreement to submit a set of asks to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs before the BIMSTEC Summit on 30th March so that the concerns identified can be submitted to the concerned authority. Following the discussion, Human Rights Alliance along with SAAPE and NGO Federation of Nepal, prepared an Appeal Letter to submit to the BIMSTEC. Through SAAPE, the appeal was submitted and was received in a positive manner in the summit. The appeal thus submitted above.

Address the People's Concerns in the BIMSTEC Summit

We, the civil society of Nepal, had organized and discussed the key concerns of the people to be raised during the Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation (BIMSTEC) Summit which is going to be held in Colombo, Sri Lanka on March 30, 2022. The discussion was concluded among former foreign Ministers, academics, foreign experts, senior journalists, and CSOs representatives. We appreciate the regular convening of the BIMSTEC and enabling environment of economic growth and peace and security in the region. The discussion had raised the following key concerns and agendas to be raised by the governments of the region.

1. Post COVID-19 Economy Recovery: We the representatives of the civil society would like to request to prioritize the post-COVID-19 economic recovery in the BIMSTEC region. Many small and medium enterprises have collapsed, so BIMSTEC as a regional forum should discuss what programs and policies are necessary to revive the SMEs (Small and Middle Enterprises) and reduce the economic inequality among the people.
2. Facilitate and strengthen the Mountain –low lands – Coastal connectivity in the region by promoting transparent trade and trade facilities (goods and services) and people-to-people connections. We urge the representatives of the BIMSTEC to respect and promote the rights of the poor and marginalized communities.
3. We call upon all the governments of BIMSTEC to make the COVID-19 vaccines accessible and free to the people including the marginalized communities. We noted that the current state of the vaccination drive has exacerbated existing inequalities and created new forms of inequalities in the region. Regional cooperation and a coordinated effort to address these issues are equally important. In addition, the entire process from vaccine acquisition to distribution needs to be transparent.
4. We considered the immediate need of addressing the issues of climate justice and environmental governance in the BIMSTEC region. Increased climatic impacts had jeopardized development efforts as well as the lives and livelihoods of people, particularly indigenous peoples, local communities, women, and other marginalized groups residing in the mountain region and downstream.
5. Similarly, the people of Delta regions of India and Bangladesh are facing problems of unpredictable weather and floods which impacted the livelihood of the people in the region. Thus, we urge the representatives to adopt fast and fair appropriate strategies and actions to address the concern of the climate crisis.

project. He shared the proposed timeline of the project activities and shared the proposed areas of action. The presentation about the project activities and objectives was followed by a discussion on how to carry forward the campaign and how to collaborate with other forums including the Fight Inequality Campaign and Peoples Vaccine Alliance. The presentation was followed by a round table discussion, which submitted a set of recommendations:

The key recommendations developed from the strategic meeting include:

- First, there is the need to identify the areas of coordination and collaboration with existing alliances and movements working for inequality
- For building regional collaboration, the role of SAAPE is very important, therefore a regional strategic meeting needs to be organized with focal representatives through SAAPE
- It is also important to find organizations working for similar causes in other South Asian countries and approach them for a collaborative approach

- A situation analysis paper needs to be prepared, and further strategies need to be developed according to it

- A consultative workshop needs to be organized in order to engage with and develop collaboration with various federations, Fight Inequality Alliance, People's Vaccine Alliance and SAAPE

- The concerns of local levels concerning inequalities need to be highlighted in this campaign – if reaching the local level is not feasible, at least the concerns from provincial level should be incorporated

- Linking the campaign with Davos forum will help generate a bigger momentum, so organizing an event before 22nd January would be helpful to spread awareness about the campaign and to build rapport with the desired organizations and forums for collaboration

It was concluded that the concerns of inequality and the statistics of vaccine inequality in Nepal should be presented in the upcoming event and the campaign should build momentum from that.
